REGISTRATION
To attend the congress, please register online or return the enclosed registration form with the required payment in full. Registration confirmation will only be acknowledged once the registration fee has been received. Please read this information carefully before completing the registration form. Each delegate must complete a separate form, and every speaker and presenter must register.

All fees are in Australian dollars (AUD) and are inclusive of the 10% compulsory goods and services tax (GST). At the time of preparation (April 2002), AUD 1 = EUR 0.60, GBP 0.37, JPY 70, USD 0.54.

Definition of Student
To attract student delegates, we offer a deep discount to the normal registration fees. To receive this discount, you must

- be enrolled for a degree in a university (or equivalent), either full time or part time, AND
- not be in “permanent”, “tenured” or “continuing” employment, AND
- not be in full time employment

You must give the name and e-mail address of a staff member who can certify your student status.

To attend the conference, it will be necessary to register online or complete and return the official registration form with the required payment in full. Each delegate must register separately.

Deposit for deferred payment:
We are aware that many delegates genuinely wish to attend ICPP 2002, but are not completely certain they can attend because they do not yet know the outcome of funding applications to their governments, are concerned about obtaining visa approval, or for other valid reasons. Delegates for whom payment by the Early Bird deadline is genuinely difficult may, at the discretion of the Local Organizing Committee, hold their abstracts in the program by payment of a non-refundable deposit of AUD 100 or USD 50, the balance to be paid at the Registration desk on arrival at ICPP 2002.

To secure your place in the program you must immediately e-mail the Treasurer at cross@physics.usyd.edu.au requesting deferred payment and explaining why you need it. On receiving authorization from the Treasurer, either

- fax the registration form including credit card authorization for payment of a non-refundable deposit of A$100 by May 15; OR
- mail the registration form with a bank draft for A$100, OR US$50 in cash, in time to arrive at the offices of ICMS Australasia no later than June 1. However, please fax a copy of the registration form and the bank draft or cash no later than May 15 so we know it has been sent.

You may pay the balance of your registration fee at the Early Bird rate upon arrival at the Congress.

Please also annotate the registration form in the Registration Fees section with the words DEPOSIT - BALANCE ON ARRIVAL and include a copy of the authorization message.

In such cases we suggest you make your own accommodation bookings using the suggestions on the ICPP 2002 Accommodation web page http://www.ise.canberra.edu.au/ICPP2002/accommodation.htm.
